Mr John Powell

Corporate Director of Health and Social Care Integration, London Borough of Redbridge

John is the Council's Corporate Director of Health and Social Care Integration, a portfolio that includes responsibility for both commissioning and providing services to meet the needs of Redbridge residents.

A social worker by profession, John has worked in local government for 35 years, the last 29 in Redbridge. The 29 years in Redbridge has been split between Children and Families Services (13 years) and Adult Social Services (16 years).

John is committed to providing quality services in partnership with service users and actively promotes strong partnership working across the various statutory bodies, social care providers and voluntary sector organisations. John believes that putting people at the heart of their service planning is the key to real and active engagement and helps achieve good outcomes for them.

John believes that integrated services across the NHS and Adult Social Services are the priority to provide sustainable, seamless and consistent service to the population of the country.

As the Vice Chair of the London Directors of Adult Social Services Branch and the National policy lead for End of Life Care means that his Champion role is an active one and compliments his passion for ensuring that Dignity in Care underpins a quality service delivery and positive outcomes for all.
